ABOUT

The first annual South Beach Jazz Festival will premiere on Wednesday, December 7, 2016, with smooth melodies and syncopated rhythms resounding from a stage on Euclid Circle. A medley of classic, Latin, and New Orleans-style acts will attract jazz fans to South Beach hotels, theaters, and restaurant seats. Over that weekend, open-air performances by local ensembles will draw Lincoln Road visitors to linger, listen and groove. And even more significantly, the festival musicians will raise public awareness of persons who have disabilities.

SOBE Jazz will benefit Power Access and is a qualified non-profit organization as defined under the Internal Revenue Code 501(c)(3) and listed in the Federal Internal Revenue Service Publication #78,

Presented by Power Access, the South Beach Jazz Festival is an event unlike any other, "Each musical performance will showcase the artistry of at least one person with a disability," according to David New, who conceived the event. "The sheer talent of the artists will promote the festival's dual goal, to entertain, and to define others by ability rather than disability. The festival is all about bringing our community together through the universal sound of music."
